"I loved how the pep-rally evolved over the years to get the crowd even more pumped up." -Heath Drescher

Adding to Tradition

The traditional Homecoming pep-rally was held at school before the game with many new additions. For the first time ever, select students were chosen to run the QUAKER flags, and group games were played in which the whole school could participate. With everyone fired up, New Phila played Claymont winning 55-0. At half-time, the female homecoming attendants walked across the field with their parents, and senior Aleah Sexton was crowned Homecoming Queen. With a huge win over Claymont, everyone was more than excited for Homecoming the next day.

Cheerleaders run the flags alongside the football team during their smokey entrance to the victorious Homecoming game.

"I loved dancing with the King and I also liked seeing the student body have a great time together!"

-Aleah Sexton

It's all about The moves

Although it was a cold night the student body still managed to have a great time. Everyone had a great time dancing to their favorite songs. Once again the photo booth was a big hit. Everyone waited in line to dress up in wild gear to capture a memory with their friends or their dates. Although the dancers crowded the front, groups of friends formed circles all over the gym floor to do some spotlight dancing!

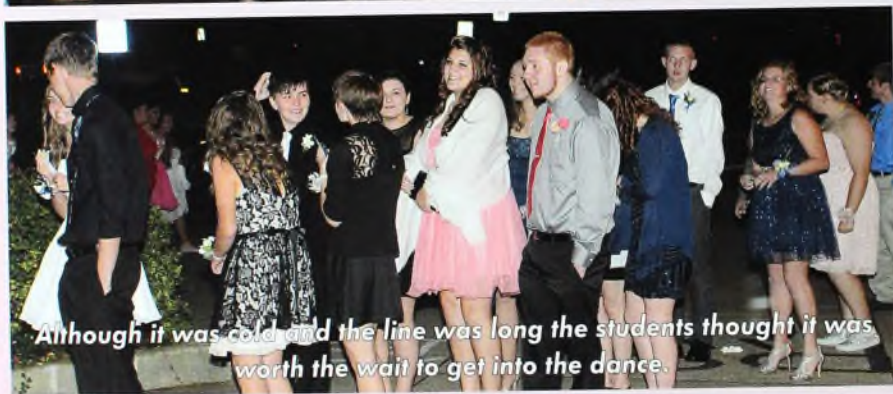

Xenia Baker breaks down the dance floor with her moves.

Mr. Jurkovic surprises the student body by busting some dance moves.

Tyler and Hannah share a slow dance to the best song of the night.

Although it was cold and the line was long the students thought it was worth the wait to get into the dance.

Mrs. Wallick, Taryn Davis and Mrs. Miller take a silly picture after they stole the king's crown.

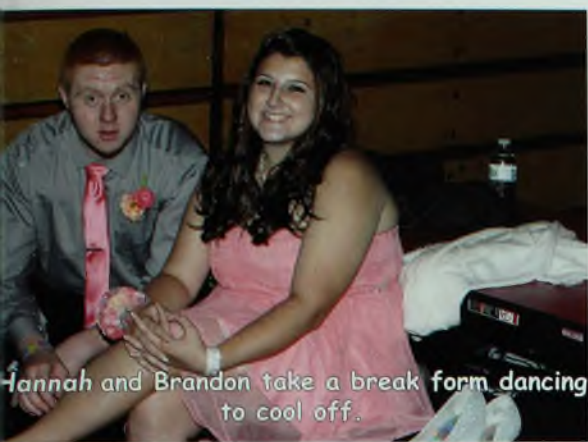

Gabe and Sunny didn't waste any time. They were dressed up and ready to pose by the time they got to the photo booth.

Hannah and Brandon take a break from dancing to cool off.

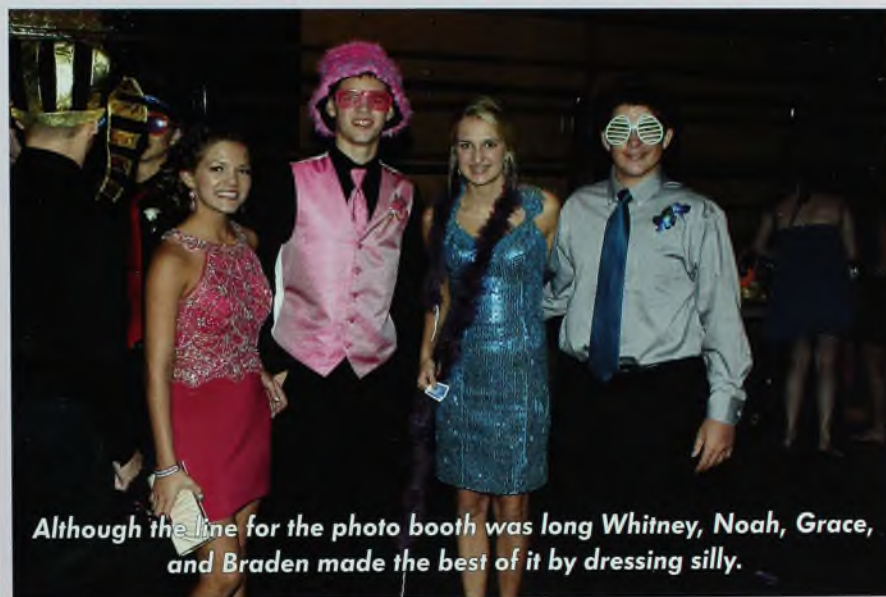

Sydney and Zyan enjoyed spending time together at the dance.

Madie, Jarrett, Cade, and Sophie get photobombed by Logan Dusenberry.

Homecoming queen Aleah Sewion was very pleased to find out that Kaden Hurst was crowned to be homecoming king.

Although the line for the photo booth was long Whitney, Noah, Grace, and Braden made the best of it by dressing silly.

Jesse Jiang, Alec Preston, and Aidan Harr bust their moves while all eyes are on them.

Emma and her date Tristan show each other off as they take pictures at homecoming.

Foe'get About it

Phila-Dover Week

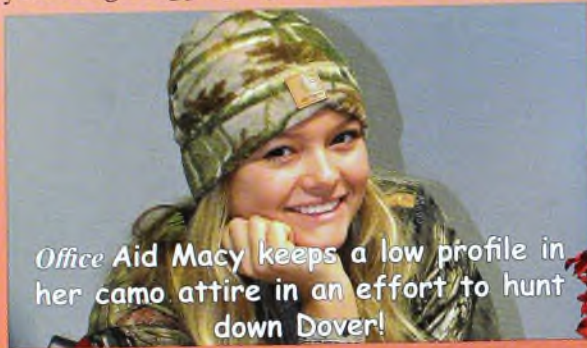

With themes like hunt down Dover, send Dover to the ER, and make Dover go wild, you wouldn't think that we were very fond of the team across the river. It's a week where friends don't want to be friendly and girlfriends don't agree with their boyfriends. These bad intentions never last long, the week is just meant to keep everyone pumped up. In the end we are just friendly foes fighting for year long bragging rights.

Reaching the T.O.P

Phila-Dover game

After practicing all summer long, the team showed their theme "Rise to the T.O.P." in their plays. Through out the year the team improved a lot getting ready for the big Dover Phila game. Everyone thought it would be a tough game but Phila blew Dover out of the water with a final score of 56-13. Senior Tyler Carter scored the first touchdown within the first 11 seconds of the game. With the E.C.O.L. championship on the line the Quakers continued with a relentless onslaught of scores to defeat their rivals.

The Big Bounce

Instead of the annual student-staff basketball game, the Dover RAC center rented their Bubble Soccer equipment to the school. The concept of the game is to kick a soccer ball into the opponents goal while bouncing off each other. Students paid for a ticket and were put into a raffle in order to be chosen to play. After students were selected, the whole school gathered in the gym to watch the game. It was students against the teachers and both sides were motivated to win. Unfortunately for the students, the staff beat them. Students were disappointed by the loss, but didn't mind having shorter classes and the chance get out of their usual routines.

Aiden Harr fits right into his bubble.

To the delight of the crowd, there were lots of nasty collisions and bodies flying in the air. It looked rough but it was really fun.

Even the Principal, Mr. Jurkovic, fought alongside the teachers.

Class Act

CLASS ACT

The highlight for some students was what happened after 2:42. They looked forward to games, dances, or simply not being at school. Most students, even though they never wanted to admit it, really did enjoy many of their classes. Some looked forward to the challenges, others enjoyed the social aspects. Walking down the halls of NPHS, you were sure to hear interactions between teachers and students. From the corny jokes Mr. Houmard loved to tell to being almost "on time" to choir. Dissecting cats, Mr. Brady's field trips, and movie days were all a part of what made school fun.

Taryn Davis and Taylor Erdos love their Sport Psychology class.

Pep rallies were always students favorite.

"I loved leading the cheers at the games." Heath Drescher

All For One One For All

Known for being the most vocal section of the crowd, the student section was always there to support fellow classmates. Every week was a different theme which gave students the chance to dress up to the games. The sports teams thanked the student section for their support by awarding certain students with the Most Spirited Award, which included treats and a trophy. Win or lose, the student section always stood behind the players and kept spirits high. The faces in the crowd may change, but the legacy of the student section won't.

Honoring America

Assemblies brought the smiles to everyone's faces.

The crowd goes wild after the Quakers make another basket.

Hannah, Becca, and Emma can't wait for the game to start.

VARSITY GOLF Go Long or Go Home

Finishing the season 2-13, the boys golf team continued to push their limits throughout the season. "I enjoyed my senior season with the golf team this year, and think practicing a lot in the summer really paid off in our match play!" -Corey Roberts '16 The girls golf team finished the season 4-8. Although they had a rough season, the team stayed strong and continued to work hard throughout the season. Freshman, Kiley Dyer was named 2nd team tri county and 2nd team Eastern District. Junior, Molly Mcknight was also named 2nd team Eastern District. "My favorite part of the golf season was spending time with my team, on the bus rides we would listen to 2000 pop songs and sing along." -Molly Mcknight '17

Tight end Kurt Pallotto makes a crucial third down catch vs. Canton Central Catholic.

Rise to the T.O.P

With their slogan being "Rise to the T.O.P", that's exactly what they did. With a winning record of 8-2, the boys exceeded everyone's expectations. After beating Dover 56-13, the boys were E.C.O.L champions and made it to the playoffs ranked number eight in the region. They were led by Captains Logan Ford, Tyler Carter, and Tucker Hill who said, "Being captain made it a bit harder because we had to keep everyone in line also there was a bit more pressure to be perfect when it was needed." The Captains definitely did their duties well and led the Quakers to many victories.

Braden Young can't wait but celebrate after scoring a touchdown.

Logan Bitikofer has his eyes on the prize as he throws the ball.

The pressures of swim season came early in the year with summer practices throughout the week and conditioning starting in early November. While everyone else was sleeping in, the varsity was up and in the water at 5:30am ready for their first of two practices for the day. The team worked on IM drills every day to build up strength and fluency in every stroke. It paid off in the end, with all relays and seven individuals qualifying for districts at OSU. "Having to swim IM drills everyday made us all stronger and helped with our stroke skills." -Ryleigh Meechan '18.

It's More Than a Team

Throughout the season the boys spent a lot of time together on and off the court. They formed bonds with each other not only at practices but also at team dinners that they attended after games. Over time the boys started to consider each other to be more like brothers rather than teammates. The boys all contributed to a great season leading to their first victory at ECOL since 2005. "We always stayed the night at each others's houses and went out to eat after the games. That was a lot of fun, and of course beating Dover twice was awesome." -Michael Karl '17

oad Warriors

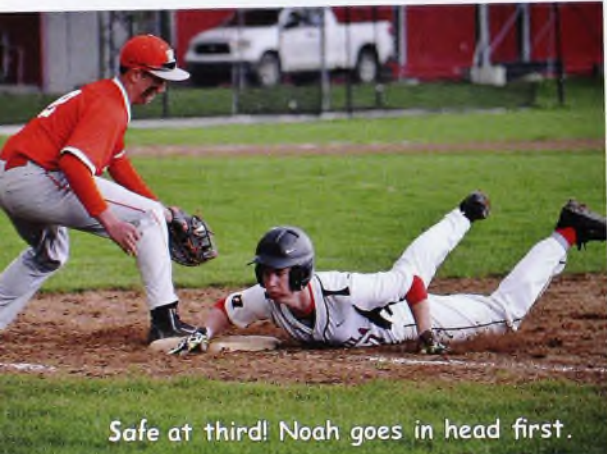

With a senior laden group their were high hopes for the varsity baseball team. Fighting through a rainy spring in which the team hardly practiced on their field they struggled through league play, finishing 4th in the ECOL. As the weather turned so did their fortunes as they made a run in the tournament. They won the District Championship in extra innings qualifying to the Regionals where they lost a hard fought battle 4-3 to Steubenville. " We had a great group of seniors and it took us awhile to put it all together. Being a District champ was a great way to finish our senior season."- Kurt Pallotto '16.

JV9 CHEERLEADING

Finishing In First

Before games and during timeouts it was common to see a cheerleader flipping across the field or gym floor. They made it look easy but it took a lifetime of practice to accomplish. The JV team used their skill to vault them to a first place in the ECOL. The freshmen team showed off their talent finishing as runners-up at ECOL. One of the highlights for the freshmen squad was tumbling and cheering at some of the varsity football games. "Although it was fun tumbling on the court, if the floor was wet it could get scary." -Emma Stokey '19.

On The Way

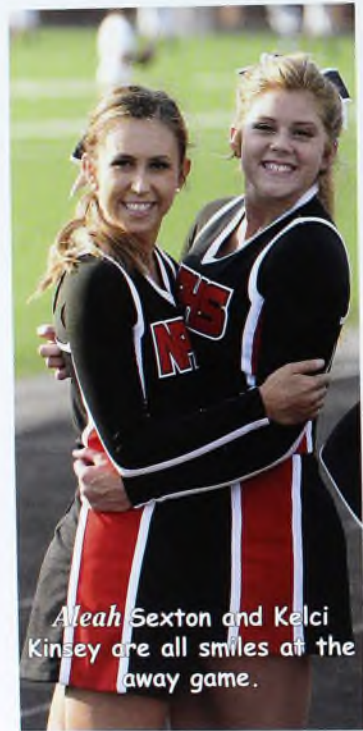

From pep rallies to competitions, the cheerleaders were the representatives of the community. Each week they were determined to get everyone at games excited and ready to win, even if that meant cheering in rain or below freezing temperatures. Along with cheering at games, they also went on to compete. Placing 3rd in ECOL, they were given the chance to go to the State Competition. They faced hundreds of girls from all over the State, making our city proud. "I'm so thankful for everything I've learned and all of the wonderful people I got to know" -Taylor Erdos '16.

Pitch Perfect

At the beginning of every period there was always a group of students racing, (slowly) to make it to the choir room at the end of the first floor hallway. Though they tended to be late to class their timing when it came to music was perfect. From leading skits at the NP vs Dover pep rally to their famous singing Valentines the choir allowed students a chance to express themselves musically.

A Peach of a Performance

After hours of practice James and the Giant Peach was a smash success. "Right Before Your Eyes", the cast portrayed the classic Roald Dahl characters wonderfully. There were many moments that made the audience laugh out loud, especially when Spiker and Sponge (Megan Riker and Molly Mcknight) were on stage. Yet there were also touching scenes, performed by the bugs who sang "Everywhere That You Are" to James, that gave you the feels. Who would have thought that a play about a bunch of bugs could be so entertaining.

The cast takes the stage and pretends to be flying on a plane.

With everyone on stage for the final number, the cast enjoys the spot light and stuns the audience once again.

The hilarious sisters sing "I Got You" and show their affection for each other to the audience.

Ill of the bugs and James sing "Floatin' Along" in the Giant Peach.

Cameron Warner portrays Ladahlord who convinces James to make a potion to help him make his miserable life better.

Andrew Huff takes center stage as James to sing a solo while Dom DeFlippo (Grasshopper) and Chloe Parrino (Ladybug) listen.

Megan and Molly give an impressive ending to the number "Property of Spiker and Sponge."

The Hustle

The cast of The Hustle worked long hours learning their lines and practicing their parts. Everyone had a special part in the play, including the audience. The audience enjoyed interacting with the play and the cast, and at the end of the play the murderer turned out being one of the audience members. The mystery and humor this play brought to the audience is something they will never forget.

Megan Riker dances to the music.

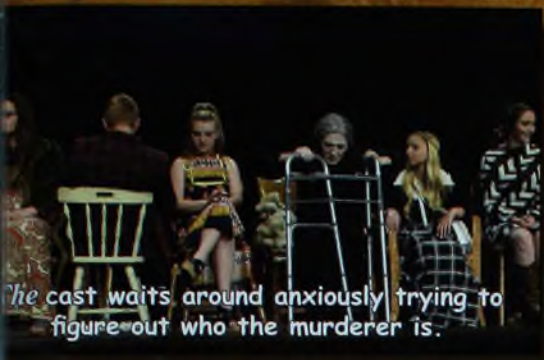

Everyone accuses Caitlin Ames of being the murderer.

Josh Flood grabs the hand of his lovely wife.

Megan accuses Jeremy Jiang of being the murderer.

Riley and Mason share a special moment.

It's a Tradition

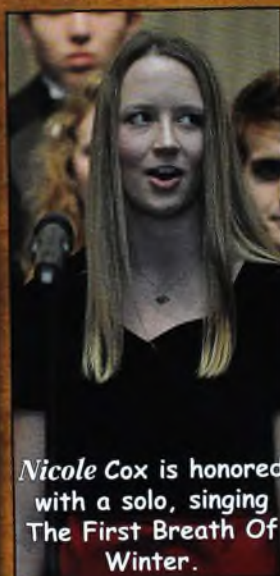

For the past 26 years the high school band and choir members have come together at the First Baptist Church to give the community a seasonal performance. The concert, titled "Our Gift to the Community", had a great turn out and even though the church seats close to a thousand people, every seat ended up being filled and some community members had to stand. A community favorite was when the band, choirs, and choir alumni came together to perform the Hallelujah Chorus. The concert was the perfect way to get the community in the Christmas spirit.

Abigail Evans participates in both the choir and band performances.

Mr. Furbay takes on the task of conducting the orchestra.

Nicole Cox is honored with a solo, singing The First Breath Of Winter.

The girls choir groups come together to give a great performance.

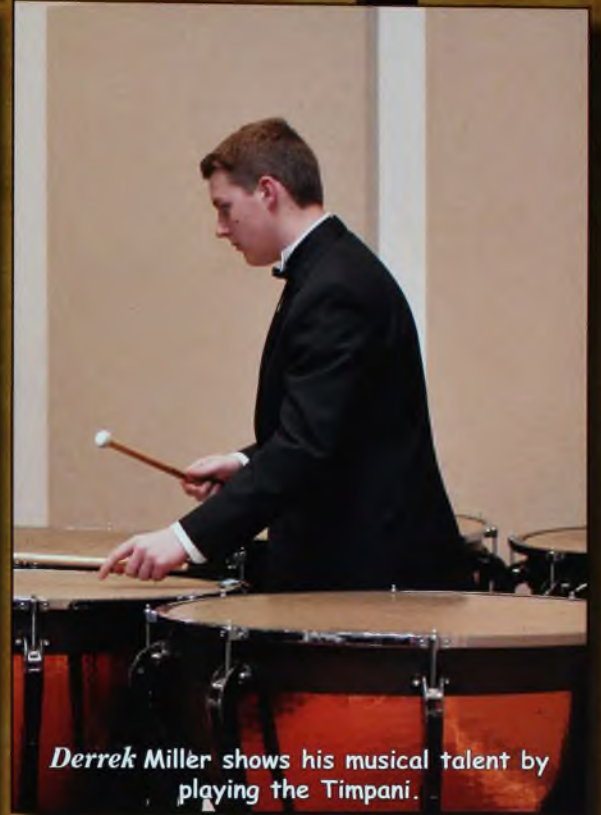

Stacey focuses on Mr. Furbay's conducting so that she hits all the right notes.

The men and concert choir join together to give the community an outstanding performance.

Andrew and Ethan harmonize with each other while playing Hallelujah Chorus.

After the band trades in their marching instruments they give a beautiful performance with only two weeks practice with their symphonic instruments.

Music is Our Forte

Unknown to many people, the band had a tradition dating back to 2010. This tradition rewarded students who showed great leadership skills or went above and beyond to make the season great. Each home football game, a difference could be seen on the field if you looked close enough. One student, different each week, had a golden plume rather than a silver plume. If you received this award, you had the honor of assisting a special guest to dot the "I" in script Phila. The golden plume was passed from student to student; the directors never touched it. The last recipient brings the plume back to the first home football game of the next season.

With energized spirits the band plays "Uptown Funk" to get the crowd pumped up.

Celebrating the Centennial

The Marching Quaker Band turned 100 years old in 2015. To celebrate this fantastic event, their competitive show was "Our Centennial" and took you through 1915 to 2015 in about 8 minutes of patriotic music. They travelled to seven competitions including the Bands of America Grand Nationals competition in Indianapolis, Indiana. Along with these competitions, they also travelled to Walt Disney World in Florida and performed in a parade. The MQB received a Superior rating at the OMEA State Competition.

The show features a small colonial band playing an arrangement of "Stars and Stripes Forever."

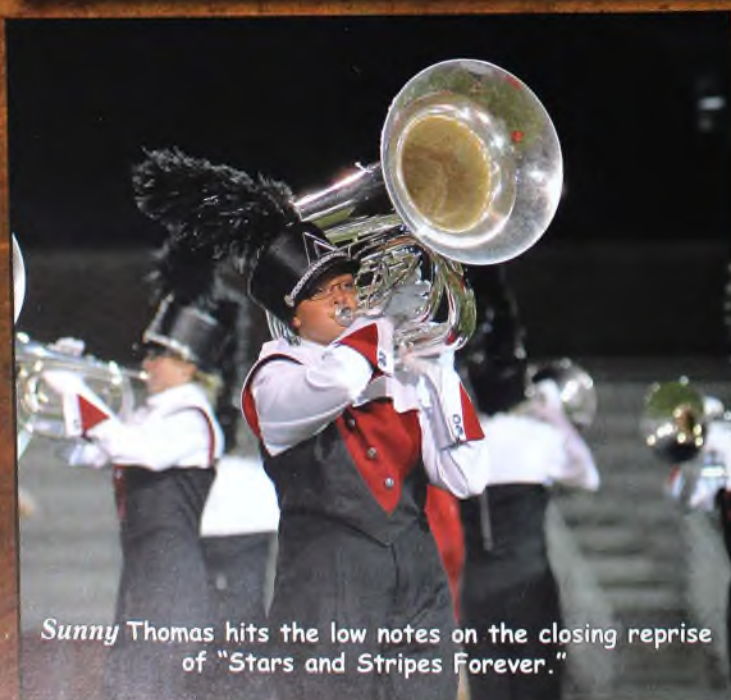

The brass instruments harmonize to create a counter melody under the woodwinds.

Kaitlyn and Chloe hit their dots during Part 2 of the show.

Sunny Thomas hits the low notes on the closing reprise of "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Back At It

After about two weeks away from their equipment, the indoor drumline and kaleidoscope groups began preparing for their winter seasons. The drumline show was entitled The War We Wage, while the kaleidoscope show was called Every Season. The War We Wage was about a young man who went off to war and the contributions he made before his life was ended. Every Season took the audience through all four seasons, starting in summer and ending in spring. The main focus of the show was to show the growth that occurred from season to season. Both groups traveled to competitions on the weekends.

BEGINNING OF A CAREER

Some NPHS students chose to attend Buckeye Career Center to join one of the many career training courses. Students spent four periods of the day learning and performing the tasks their job would require. Buckeye not only helped to prepare students for adult life but also offered core classes such as history and science. Many students left with a license in their chosen profession, making it possible to get a job right after graduation.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society (NHS) is an organization established to recognize outstanding high school students. Being more than just on honor roll, NHS recognizes those students who have demonstrated excellence in the areas of scholarship, leadership, and character. Before being a member of the elite group, newcomers are tapped, or initiated, by receiving a carnation and an award. All members of NHS met in the library for a quick meal, while president Jake Ligmanowski welcomed them into the group.

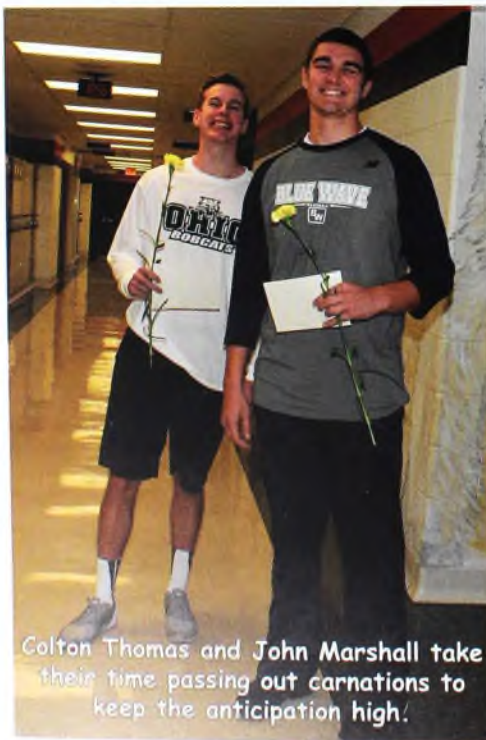

Old and new members don't mind missing class for a chance to eat and hangout with friends.

Taylor Cochrun seems quite happy she interrupts Mr. Myers teaching to tap a new member.

Colton Thomas and John Marshall take their time passing out carnations to keep the anticipation high.

Not only are Sophie Gasser and Mackenzie Cardani fellow QT members, now they are both NHS members as well!

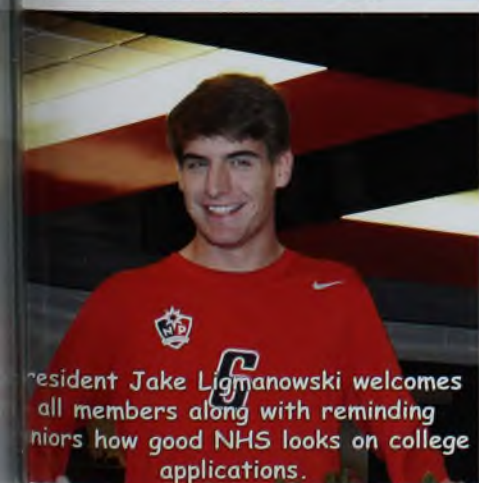

With their stomachs full and hopes high, the new members gather together for their first picture as a part of NHS.

Alexa and Kyle already love being NHS members!

Lindsey Miller is eager to join fellow classmates in the library.

President Jake Ligmanowski welcomes all members along with reminding seniors how good NHS looks on college applications.

Past members get to pick who they are going to "fap".

CLUBS N' FUN

Students were encouraged to grasp the opportunity and join as many extracurricular groups and clubs as possible. With every club comes different chances to get out of the school with classmates and learn hands-on. Newest club additions included the Chess Club that competed in matches, and the Diversity Club.

Raegan makes Mexican flags to hang around the school at a Spanish Club meeting.

Taylor shows off her school spirit by coming to school during the summer to paint the patio.

Katelin, Taryn, Summer, and Tess eagerly wait for the fresh crepes at a French Club meeting.

Jennalee is excited to be tapped into National Honor society by her good friend Maxwell.

Camryn, Whitney, Mykenzi and others are recognized by the superintendent for being voted class officers.

Devan Ley is enjoying snacks and a guest speaker during the first Diversity Club meeting.

The Science Club travels to Dundee Falls to explore the waterfalls.

Senior Emily Lawver works on updating the pay-in for book sales.

Madie, Ryleigh, and Sarah are all ecstatic the pages were done for the first deadline.

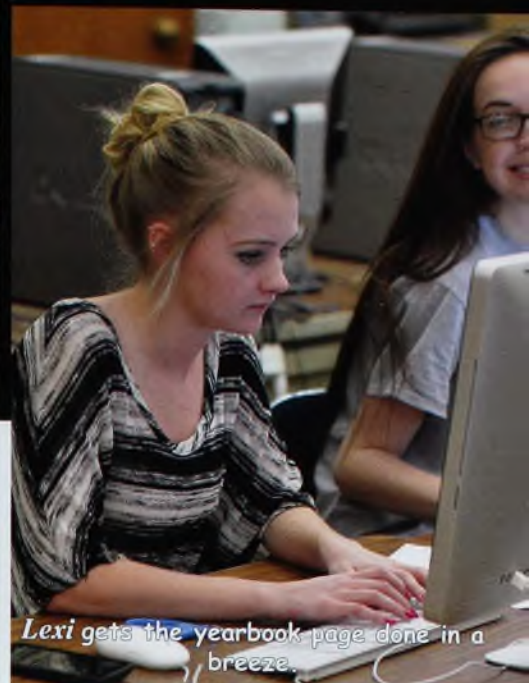

Mr. Pry wasn't expecting Hannah Holmes to snap a picture.

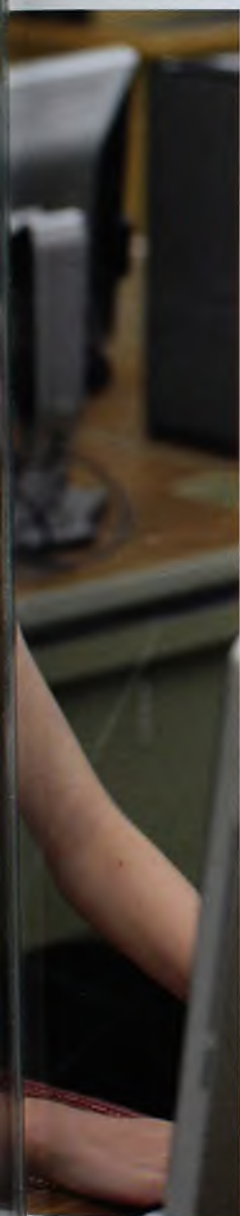

Bianca is excited to finally turn in her last sports spread.

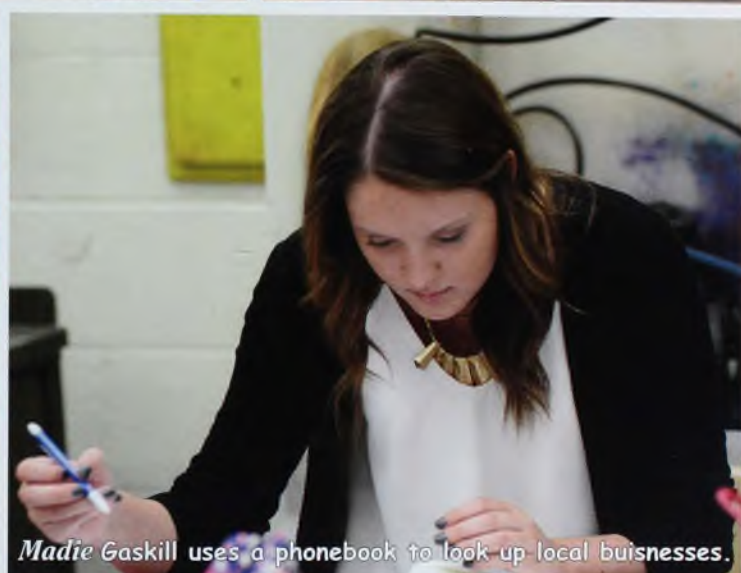

Seniors Sam and Hannah get double the work done at double the speed as they work together on all of their pages.

Chris double checks his ads making sure he didn't forget to call anybody.

Madie Gaskill uses a phonebook to look up local buisnesses.

Quakers got Talent

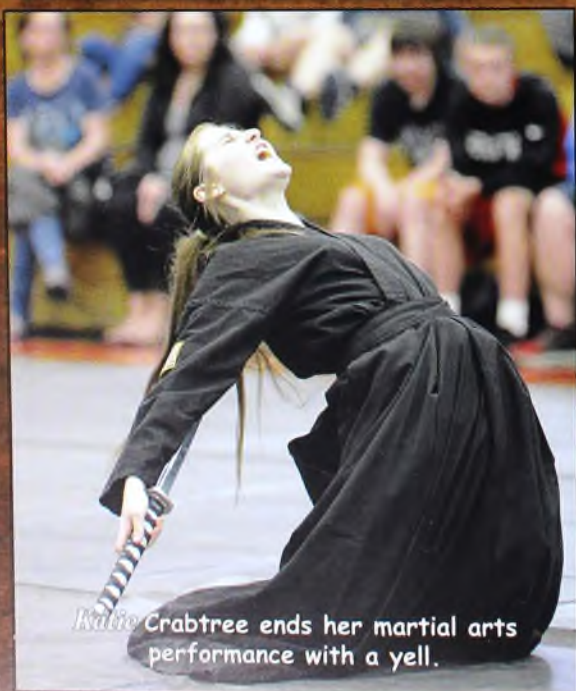

Not only did the students show they had talent, a group of the staff started the Spring show with a combination of popular dances. Between the acts, Key Club drew names and chose winners for various prize Easter baskets. Talents ranged from musical, to martial arts to comedy. Taking first place was Alyson Bunnelle, second place was the dance team of Sophie Gasser and Maddie Reidenbach, and third place was awarded to senior Sydney Jeffries.

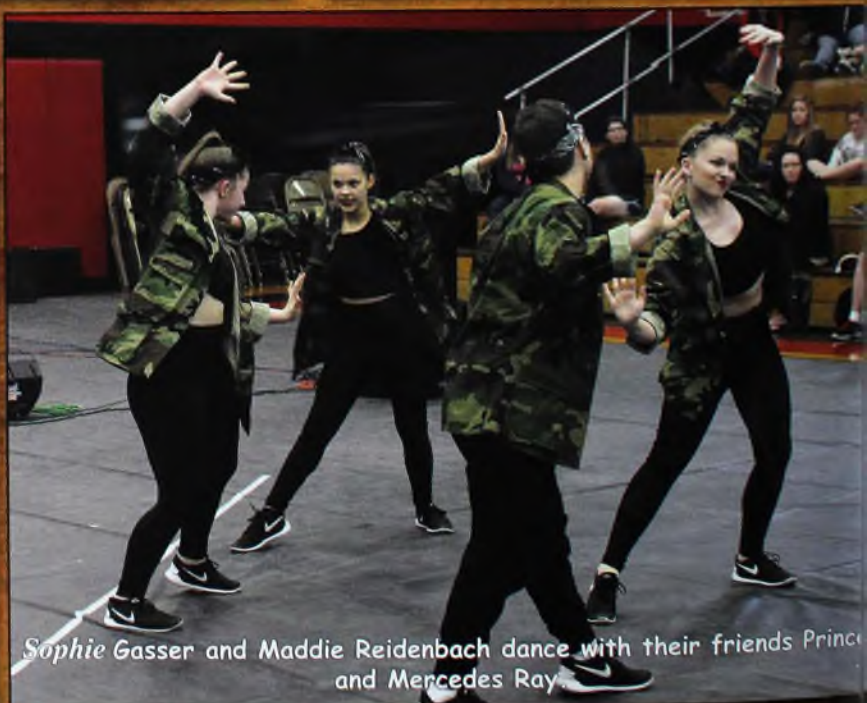

Freshman Ainsley Seferi performs the song "Lost Boy."

Derrick steals the show with his cover of "Hallelujah".

Katie Crabtree ends her martial arts performance with a yell.

Sophie Gasser and Maddie Reidenbach dance with their friends Prince and Mercedes Ray.

The guitar ensemble plays "Unforgiven" by Metallica, while Mr. Roberts does the vocals.

Sydney Jeffries places third with her lyrical dance.

Senior Alyson Bunnelle wins first place with her courageous performance of "Hollow".

Adam shares his comedic sense of humor with NPHS and impersonates his angry cat.

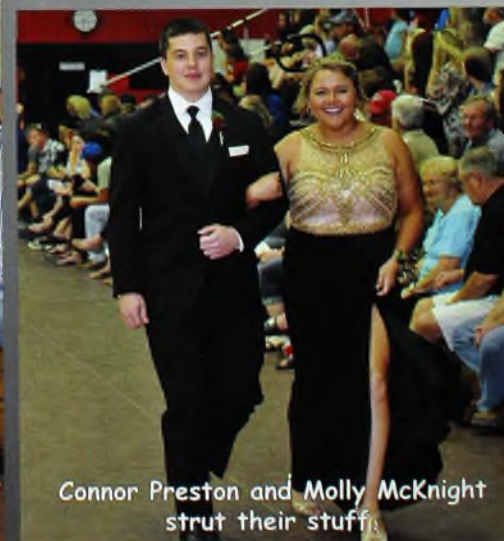

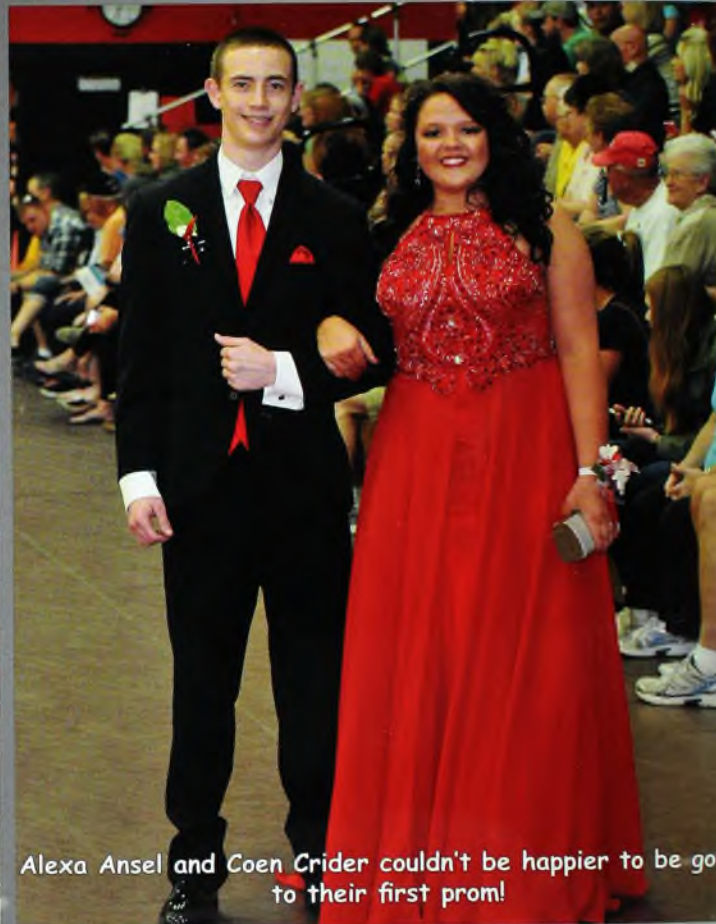

Teachers start the talent show off with a "dab".

Prom Walk-Ins Prom Walk-Ins Prom Walk-Ins Prom Walk-Ins

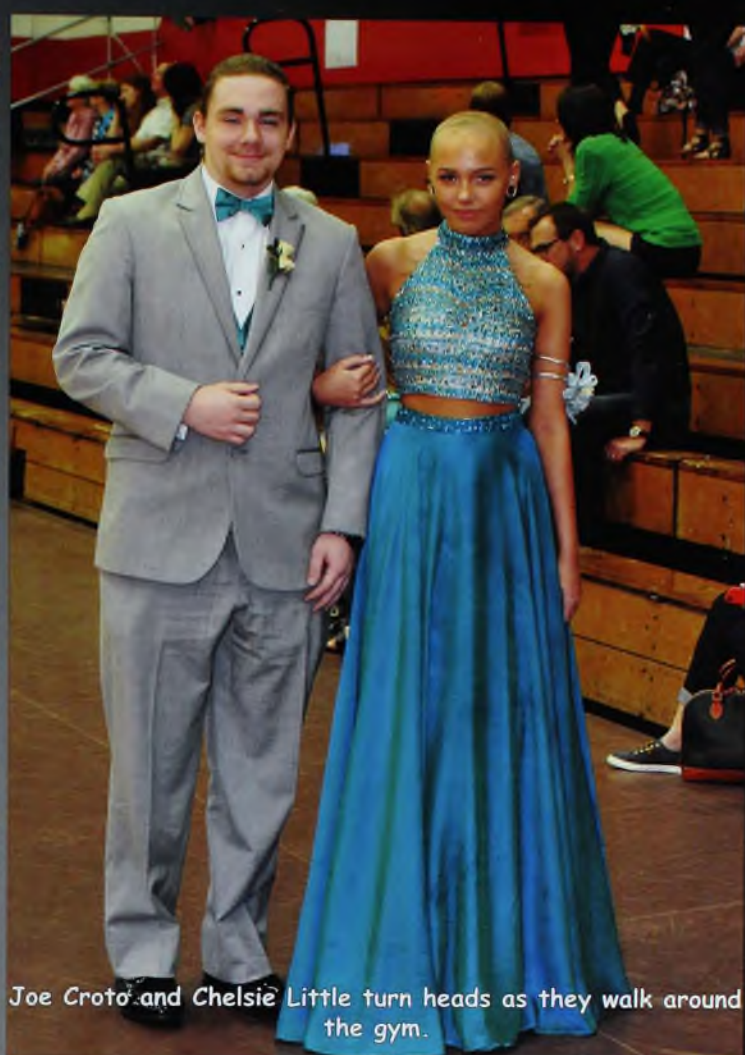

All Rained In

Unfortunately the weather was not cooperating on prom night so walk-ins were moved into the gymnasium. Parents and friends packed into the bleachers and watched as the students walked across the "red carpet" on the basketball court. Rain or shine, everyone looked fantastic for prom.

Best Friends Taryn Davis, Leah Velleca, and Claire Carpenter look stunning walking down the carpet.

Jimmy Gao walks Abby Jennings down the gym.

Stacia Eckhardt is escorted by Brady Parsons.

Colton McAfee and Kaitlin Jagunic look great for prom.

Brooke Bays and Reed Anderson match perfectly for prom!

#All Dressed Up

Attendees of all ages looked fantastic at prom walk-ins.

Jeremy Long and Hannah Harr loved going to their last prom together.

#Dancing Shoes

Whether they were dance battling or slow dancing with their date, everyone wore their best dancing shoes.

Prom Court looks great as they wait to see who will be crowned.

Breeze and Kaitlin look gorgeous in their dresses.

Milena Bartell and Lucas Gooding love using the glow sticks as props for pictures.

Seth Parker and Joy Leindecker steal the dance floor!

King Kolin Trimmer and Queen Alyson Bunnelle couldn't be happier to have been crowned.

Brooke Beavers, Brooke Dague and Jacey Thomas dance the night away.

These girls don't mind taking a quick break from dancing to show off their dresses together.

Best friends Sydney, Macy, and Jayli dance with their dates.

Students decided to go back in time for their prom theme. Decorations were set to the fifties era with record players hanging on the wall. Even the occasional "throwback" song was played for the students to dance to. Kolin Trimmer and Alyson Bunnelle were crowned king and queen at the beginning of the dance. Glow sticks were thrown and candy was eaten while all the students had a great time.

A night "Bull" of fun!

After an evening of fancy dresses, dining, and dancing, everyone couldn't wait to jump into some T-shirts and play games at post prom. It was fun to compete with your date and sometimes against them to win tickets for prizes at the end of the evening. The highlight of the night for most people was either riding the mechanical bull or spinning in the gyro ball. For seniors it was one of their last chances to enjoy an activity with all of their friends and classmates.

Logan and Olivia wiggle cookies from their foreheads to their mouths with no hands!

Jeremy and Hannah attempt to flip the marshmallows into their cups.

Audie takes the mechanical bull for a spin.

Megan and Alexis take the Gyroball for a spin!

John and Tessa stick cotton balls to their noses using vaseline.

Colton races through the obstacle course.

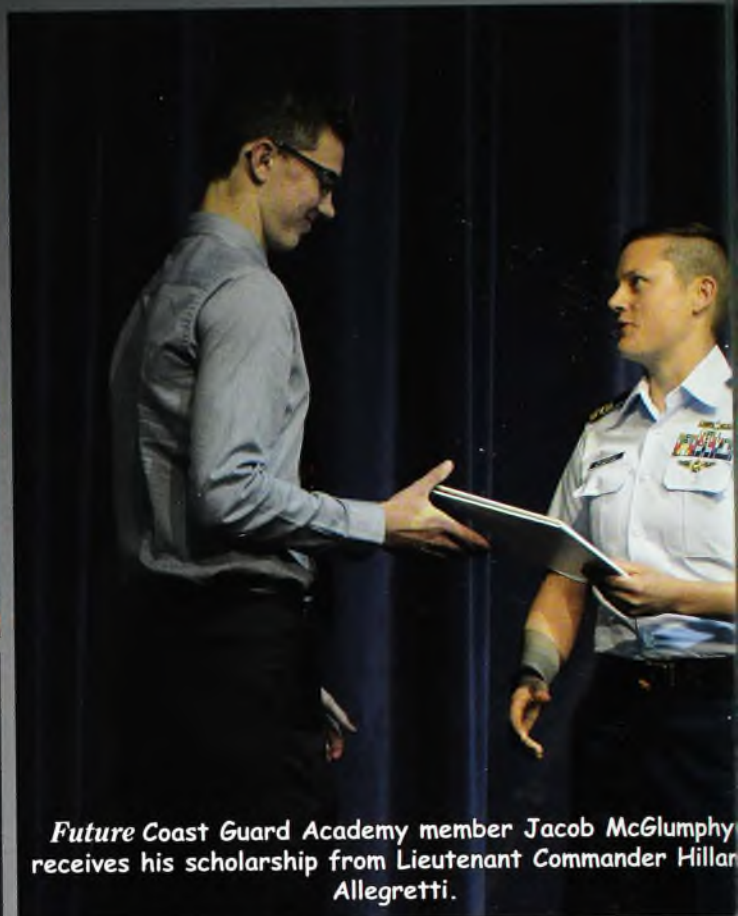

Sophomore recipients wait patiently to receive their awards.

Nicole Cox receives summa cum laude and an honors diploma to finish her senior year.

#chords for scores

Not only were chords given to students with a GPA of 3.5 or higher, students who had perfect attendance also received white chords.

Future Coast Guard Academy member Jacob McGlumphy receives his scholarship from Lieutenant Commander Hillar Allegretti.

Robert Papa earned a second year academic award.

Perfect attendance recipient Megan Riker shows off her certificate to the crowd.

Academic Awards

The night started off with freshmen and sophomores receiving their perfect attendance awards and academic letter. Then, juniors and seniors followed with the same awards. The seniors also received their cords for graduation. Additional scholarships were also awarded to some seniors.

The freshmen and sophomore award recipients talk in their seats before the ceremony begins.

Kaden Hurst thanks the scholarship sponsor as he receives his first of many scholarships for the night.

Senior Colton Thomas proudly receives his summa cum laude and perfect attendance cords.

Gabe Ernest receives his second year academic award.

Graduation Graduation Graduation

Rain Rain go away..

It was touch and go all day as everyone watched the weather and hoped and prayed for a break in the rain. Although it was still raining at 4:00, Mr. Jurkovic made the call to keep graduation outside and hoped that the forecast for the rain to end by ceremony time would hold up. As the class of 2016 unloaded the light mist ended and the weather was perfect. It was an evening filled with tears of joy and excitement as the class of 2016 bid farewell to their years as students at NPHS.

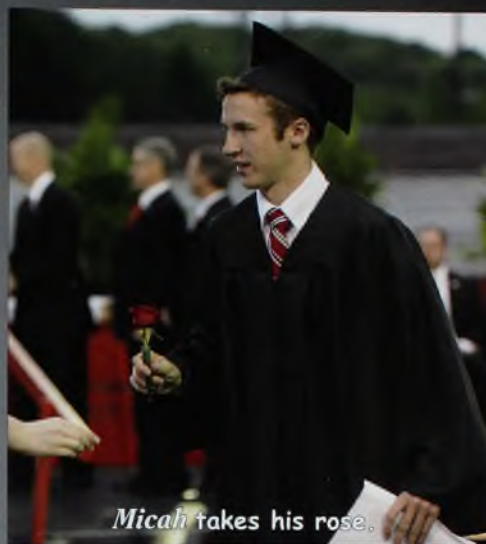

Because she attended BCC Noel enjoys her second graduation ceremony.
